

Bringing Science to the Community

On May 31, 2014, Springfield, Va.-based Robert E. Lee High School hosted its third annual Community Science Day. Spearheaded by 2010 KSTF Teaching Fellow Heather Moore, the event engaged the community by providing age appropriate, hands-on science lessons taught by junior and senior students taking International Baccalaureate (IB) biology, physics and environmental systems courses. To learn more about Community Science Day, please read a June 6, 2014 article published by The Connection newspaper.
