

Freedom High School Teacher, Mandi Kraemer, Attains National Board Certification

2009 Teaching Fellow Mandi Kraemer, a teacher at Orlando-based Freedom High School, earned National Board Certification in the 2012–2013 assessment cycle. National Board Certification is an advanced teaching credential held by slightly more than 3% of teachers in the United States. West Orlando News published a story that highlights this major accomplishment.